

NATIONAL DISABILITY RIGHTS
NETWORK

Protection & Advocacy for Individuals with Disabilities

To blame a fee hike on admission to the most visited national parks on veterans, people with disabilities and the elderly is uninformed, hurtful, and frankly unconscionable. Collectively our national parks can be seen “as cumulative expressions of a single national heritage”. When speaking of that national expression of a single heritage, NDRN encourages Secretary Zinke to be more considerate of the lived experiences of all Americans.